

Celebrating Kochanowski, Shakespeare and the enduring Polish links with Stratford

Saturday 28 April 2018

The Shakespeare Centre, Henley Street, Stratford-upon-Avon CV37 6QW

7 - 9.30pm – Doors open at 6.30pm

An evening of literature, dance and music. A talk on two literary giants of Renaissance Europe will set the scene, whilst a display of archive items will illustrate longstanding Polish links with Shakespeare and Stratford.

Attended by His Excellency Arkady Rzegocki, Polish Ambassador to the court of St James.

Professor Barry Keane of the University of Warsaw will explore the significance of Kochanowski and Shakespeare as Renaissance writers.

Anita Jones Dębska, a literary scholar, will lead recitals of work by Kochanowski and Shakespeare.

The evening's programme will feature Polish music by 'Alternative Strings' and folk dancing provided by the 'Wiesniacy' dancers.

Through the generous support of the Polish Cultural Institute, tickets are offered at:

Tickets: Adults £5, Concession & Friends £4

Book now: www.shakespeare.org.uk/visit/whats-on Call 01789 201806

Or visit one of our historic houses